JOHN MADIGAN

Chairman

John Madigan became chairman of the Cubs in November 1987 after serving on the organization's board of directors since Tribune Company purchased the Cubs in 1981. He represents the team at all major league baseball ownership meetings and is a member of the Television and Long Range Planning Committees of Major League Baseball and the National League's Expansion Committee. He is executive vice president and a director of Tribune Company.

A native Chicagoan and lifelong Cubs fan, Mr. Madigan holds a bachelor's degree and a master's of business administration degree from the University of Michigan.

JIM FREY

Executive Vice President, Baseball Operations

Jim Frey begins his first year as the Cubs' executive vice president, baseball operations. Frey, who managed the Cubs to the 1984 National League Eastern Division championship, was the team's manager from 1984-June 1986. He spent last year providing color commentary on WGN radio.

Following the 1984 season, Frey was recognized by five organizations— the Baseball Writers' Association of America, The Sporting News, Associated Press, United Press International and ESPN— honoring him as the National League Manager of the Year.

Jim had a 196-182 record (.519) as the Cubs' manager. Frey earlier managed the Kansas City Royals in 1980 and part of the 1981 season. Jim directed the Royals to the 1980 American League pennant before losing a six-game World Series to Philadelphia. He also was the A.L. manager in the 1981 All-Star Game.

Prior to 1980, Frey spent 15 years in the Baltimore Orioles' system. After retiring as an active player following the 1963 season, he managed two seasons at Bluefield of the Appalachian League (Rookie). Jim scouted for the Orioles from 1966-1969 before spending 10 seasons as Baltimore's hitting instructor. He also was the team's bullpen coach (1970-1975) and first base coach (1976-1979). Between managerial stints with the Royals and Cubs, Frey was the New York Mets' batting coach for two seasons.

Although he played professional baseball as an outfielder for 14 seasons, Frey never made it to the major leagues despite a .302 career batting average. He won two batting titles in the minor leagues, including a .336 average at Tulsa of the Texas League (AA) in 1957, when he was the league's Most Valuable Player. Jim was originally signed by the Paducah, KY, team of the Mississippi-Ohio Valley League (D) in 1950.

Jim, who attended Ohio State University in Columbus, enjoys golf during the off-season and is an avid reader of history books. He attended Western Hills High School in Cincinnati, OH, and played first base while boyhood friend Don Zimmer played shortstop.

Players drafted since Goldsberry's arrival include Shawon Dunston, Dave Martinez, Rafael Palmeiro, Jamie Moyer and Greg Maddux, along with highly regarded prospects Darrin Jackson, Mark Grace, Dwight Smith and Doug Dascenzo.

Gordon played pro ball for 12 seasons, including three in the major leagues with the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns.

Prior to joining the Cubs in 1981, Goldsberry scouted for the Philadelphia Phillies, Milwaukee Brewers and the Cubs.

MARK McGUIRE

Vice President, Business Operations

Mark McGuire joined the Cubs' organization in November 1981 as its vice president of finance. He was named vice president, business operations in December 1987. Mark's responsibilities include the marketing, stadium operations, ticket office, publications and accounting departments.

McGuire holds a bachelor's degree in English from Georgetown University and a master's of business administration degree from Loyola University.

SPECIAL PLAYER CONSULTANTS

HUGH ALEXANDER

Hugh Alexander joined the Cubs' organization in January 1987 as a special player consultant. He has been a major league scout since 1938 after a promising big league career was halted by an oil well accident.

He was originally signed by Cleveland in 1935 and made it to the major leagues a year and a half later. The Indians made him a full time scout following the accident. He worked for Cleveland for 14 years before joining the White Sox for five years, the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers for 15 years and the Phillies for 16 years.

In all, Alexander has scouted for four World Championship teams, seven pennant winners and five division champions.

CHARLIE FOX

Charlie Fox has been with the Cubs' organization since March 1983 when he was hired as a special consultant to the general manager.

Fox is a former major league manager who guided the San Francisco Giants, Montreal Expos and the Cubs. Before joining the Cubs, Fox had been the director of minor leagues and scouting for the Montreal Expos since 1979. He also served the Expos as vice president and general manager in 1977 and 1978 and as a scout in 1976.

Charlie began his pro career as a catcher with the New York Giants in 1942. He spent 35 years in the New York and San Francisco Giants organization as a player, minor league manager, major league coach, manager and scout.

BILLY WILLIAMS

Billy Williams began his first season in the front office in 1988 following a long, distinguished playing career.

Williams, who was inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1987, played 18 seasons in the major leagues, 16 with the Cubs. He had a career batting average of .290 with 426 homers and 1,475 runs batted in. He established a National League record by playing in 1,117 consecutive games.

Following his playing career, Billy was the Cubs' hitting instructor and first base coach from 1978-1982 before spending three seasons as a coach with the Oakland A's. He returned to the Cubs in 1986 and served as hitting instructor through last season. He is one of two Cubs players to have his uniform number (26) retired. The other is Ernie Banks (14).

WRIGLEY FIELD—HOME OF THE CUBS

This season marks the 73rd year that the Cubs have called Wrigley Field home. The Friendly Confines has been the site of such historic moments as:

- Babe Ruth's "called shot" when Ruth allegedly pointed to a bleacher location. Ruth then proceeded to hit Charlie Root's next pitch in that vicinity. The home run was hit October 1, 1932, during Game 3 of the 1932 World Series.
- Gabby Hartnett's famous "Homer in the Gloamin' " September 28, 1938, vs. Pittsburgh's Mace Brown.
- The great May 2, 1917, pitching duel between Jim "Hippo" Vaughn and the Reds' Fred Toney. Both Vaughn and Toney threw no-hitters for nine innings before Cincinnati's Jim Thorpe (of Olympic fame) drove in the only run in the 10th inning. Toney finished with a no-hitter.
- Ernie Banks' 500th career home run May 12, 1970, vs. Atlanta's Pat Jarvis.
- Pete Rose's 4,191st career hit, which tied him with Ty Cobb for the most hits in baseball history. Rose singled off Reggie Patterson on September 8, 1985.

Wrigley Field, originally known as Weeghman Park, was built in 1914 with a capacity of 14,000. Weeghman Park was the home of the Chicago Whales of the newly formed Federal League, which lasted only two years before folding for financial reasons. Chicago's entry was the property of Charles H. Weeghman, a wealthy restaurant chain owner.

The cost of building Weeghman Park was estimated at $250,000 and at one time there were 490 men working on the project. The infield and outfield consisted of more than 4,000 yards of soil and four acres of bluegrass.

The first National League game played there was April 20, 1916, when the Cubs beat the Cincinnati Reds 7-6 in 11 innings. The park became known as Cubs Park in 1920. It was officially named Wrigley Field in 1926 in honor of William Wrigley Jr., the club's owner.

The Wrigley Field scoreboard was constructed in 1937 when the outfield area was renovated to provide improved and expanded bleacher seating. The original scoreboard remains intact except for a few touches of modernization, such as the electronic message board.

The score-by-innings and the pitchers' numbers are changed by hand. The numbers signaling batter, ball, strike and out, along with H and E to signify hit and error, are eyelits.

One of the traditions is the flying of a flag bearing a "W" or an "L" atop the scoreboard after a game. A blue flag with a white "W" indicates a victory; a white flag with a blue "L" denotes a loss. To inform night travelers of the results, an innovation was added in 1978—a blue light atop the scoreboard signals victory and a white light indicates defeat.

In recent years Wrigley Field has undergone numerous changes. The seats in the lower grandstand down both foul lines have been contoured toward home plate. The upper deck was completely restructured during a four-year period (1968-1971). New office space was created and old offices refurbished in the administrative area behind home plate in 1981-1982. A ticket office was built directly behind home plate in 1983. During the winter of 1984, a home clubhouse was completed under the third base stands.

Although improvements have been made to the park in the last two decades to increase comfort and convenience for the spectators, Wrigley Field remains much the same as when it opened in 1914. With a seating capacity of 39,012, Wrigley Field is one of the few remaining parks in the major leagues that was designed for the sole purpose of playing baseball.

NOTES ON WRIGLEY FIELD

- No batted baseball has ever hit the centerfield scoreboard. Two balls barely missed, landing on Waveland and Sheffield avenues. One homer was hit by Roberto Clemente to left-centerfield, the other by Bill "Swish" Nicholson to right-center.
- The original vines were purchased and planted by Bill Veeck in 1938. Veeck strung bittersweet from the top of the wall to the bottom. He then planted the ivy at the base of the wall.
- The bleacher wall is 11 feet high. The basket attached to the wall was constructed in 1970.
- Ernie Banks' uniform number (14) is imprinted on the flag which hangs from the leftfield foul pole. Banks' teammate, Billy Williams, had his uniform number retired during the 1987 season. Williams' No. 26 flies from the rightfield foul pole.
- A bear cub was in attendance at the first National League game played at Wrigley Field (then Weeghman Park) in 1916.

NOTES ON CUBS HISTORY

The creation of the National League in 1876 is largely credited to William A. Hulbert, the first president of the Chicago club. He held the dual role of league president and club president until his death in 1882. With the assistance of Albert G. Spalding, Chicago's first manager, Hulbert drafted the National League constitution and by-laws in 1875. More than 100 years later, these rules have remained almost unchanged.

Of the eight original charter members of the National League, only the Cubs have operated continuously in the same city.

In 1907, "Cubs" was officially adopted as the nickname of the team. Although nicknames were not official in the early years of the league, the Chicago club was first dubbed the "White Stockings." After 1890, the most popular nicknames for the team were "Colts" and "Orphans." Legend has it that a newspaper writer first used the "Cubs" name on March 27, 1902, while searching for a short name to fit a headline.

The Wrigley family's involvement with the Cubs started after the 1915 season when William Wrigley Jr. and a group of Chicago businessmen purchased the team from the Taft family of Cincinnati. In 1921, Wrigley became majority stockholder. After his death in 1932, his interest passed to his son, Philip K. Wrigley. Upon Philip's death in 1977, principal interest in the ballclub was left to his son, William. The sale of the club to Tribune Company in 1981 ended the longest continuous operation of a franchise by the same family in the same city in baseball history.

The Cubs won their first National League Eastern Division championship in 1984 when they compiled a 96-65 record under N.L. Manager of the Year Jim Frey. It was the first time since 1945 that the Cubs had advanced into post-season competition.

HIGHLIGHTS IN CUBS HISTORY

In 112 National League seasons, the Cubs have played 16,425 games and have won 8,450 (151 were tied), both major league records.

The 1987 Cubs led the league in homers for the third straight season with a club-record 209. The Cubs have hit 100 or more home runs in 35 of their last 37 seasons.

In 1987, Andre Dawson became the first player from a sixth-place team to be selected as the Most Valuable Player in the National League. Dawson hit 49 home runs, 2nd in Cubs history to Hack Wilson's N.L.-record 56 in 1930.

On August 13, 1987, Hall of Famer Billy Williams had his No. 26 retired.

In 1986, Ryne Sandberg established a N.L. record for fielding percentage by a second baseman with a .9938 mark. He tied a major league record by committing just five errors. Sandberg also swiped 34 bases to become the first Cub since Frank Chance (1906-10) to steal 30 or more bases in five straight seasons.

The Cubs set a city and franchise home attendance record by drawing 2,161,534 fans to Wrigley Field in 1985. They also led the N.L. in road attendance by attracting a club-record 2,255,306. The 1985 Cubs set a club total attendance record of 4,416,840, surpassing the previous high of 4,106,588 established in 1984.

The 1985 Cubs stole 182 bases, the highest total since the 1911 team stole 214.

Ryne Sandberg became the third player in major league history to hit 25 or more homers and steal 50 or more bases in a season, hitting 26 homers and stealing 54 bases in 1985.

The Cubs clinched their first N.L. Eastern Division title in Pittsburgh on September 24, 1984. Rick Sutcliffe beat the Pirates 4-1 on a two-hitter.

Ryne Sandberg collected two late-inning homers in a 12-11 win against St. Louis at Wrigley Field on June 23, 1984. Sandberg led off the ninth inning with a solo homer run against Bruce Sutter to tie the game at 9-9. He then hit a two-run, two-out homer off Sutter in the 10th to tie the game at 11-11. Sandberg went 5-for-6 with 7 RBI.

On August 22, 1982, Ernie Banks became the first Cub to have his uniform number (14) retired.

The Dodgers beat the Cubs 2-1 in a 21-inning game August 17-August 18, 1982. The contest fell one inning shy of the club's all-time record of 22 innings, set May 22, 1927, when the Cubs defeated the Braves 4-3 in Boston. The 21-inning game tied the record for most innings played by a Cubs team at home.

On May 25, 1982, at San Diego, Ferguson Jenkins became the seventh man in baseball history to record 3,000 strikeouts.

The Cubs won their 8,000th game May 13, 1982, against Houston in the Astrodome. Allen Ripley was the winning pitcher for the Cubs. The Cubs have won more games in one city than any other pro franchise.

The largest Opening Day crowd at Wrigley Field, 45,777, attended the 1978 home opener vs. Pittsburgh on April 14.

On April 30, 1970, Billy Williams became the first player in N.L. history to play 1,000 consecutive games. He extended his streak to 1,117 games before his streak ended September 3, 1970.

Don Cardwell threw a no-hitter against the Cardinals in his Cubs debut May 15, 1960. He became the only pitcher in baseball history to hurl a no-hitter in his first appearance for a club.

In 1958, Ernie Banks became the first member of a team with a losing record to win the MVP Award. He also was MVP in 1959.

The pennant-winning 1945 Cubs swept 19 double-headers and split 10.

The 1935 Cubs set the record for consecutive victories in a season. They won 21 games in a row to capture the N.L. pennant.

Hack Wilson established a major league record by driving in 190 runs in 1930. He hit a N.L.-record 56 home runs that year.

The largest crowd to see a baseball game at Wrigley Field was 51,556 on June 27, 1930, against Brooklyn. Of that number, 30,476 were Ladies' Day guests and 1,332 were passholders.

Cubs pitcher Ed Reulbach pitched both games of a double-header against Brooklyn on September 26, 1908, shutting out the Dodgers 5-0 and 3-0.

The all-time major league record for wins in a season and winning percentage is held by the 1906 Cubs, who won 116 and lost 36 (.763).

A LOOK AT 1987

The Chicago Cubs finished a disappointing sixth in the National League Eastern Division in 1987. Their season, however, included many individual and team accomplishments.

The Cubs surpassed the 2-million mark in home paid attendance (2,035,130) for the third time in club history and the third time in the last four years. It was the third-highest attendance total in the 112-year history of the team. The Cubs ranked sixth in the N.L. in both home and road attendance (2,085,808). They were one of nine major league clubs to draw more than 2 million fans at home and on the road in 1987.

The Cubs were 11-3 in their first 14 road games of 1987, the best road start in the history of the franchise. They improved their road record from 28-52 in 1986 to 36-45. They also fared better on artificial turf (22-26 compared to 16-31 in 1986) and at night (28-28 vs. 18-35) in 1987. The Cubs won 5 of 6 games in the Houston Astrodome, the most victories by a Cubs team there since the stadium opened in 1965.

The Cubs had four players (Andre Dawson, Rick Sutcliffe, Lee Smith and Ryne Sandberg) named to the N.L. All-Star Game squad for the first time since 1977. They had two All-Star starters (Dawson, Sandberg) for the first time since 1973 (Ron Santo, Billy Williams). For the first time since 1972, four Cubs played in the All-Star Game, and for the first time since 1936, two Cubs pitchers appeared.

Home runs highlighted the Cubs' offense. The team hit a league-leading 209 homers in 161 games, the most by a N.L. club since the 1956 Cincinnati Reds hit 221 in 155 games. The Cubs' homer total broke the N.L. record for home runs during a 162-game season, held by the 1967 Atlanta Braves (207).

The 1987 Cubs set club marks for total home runs, homers at Wrigley Field (114) and home runs on the road (95). They tied a team record by hitting homers in 14 consecutive games from August 9-August 23. Their 8 pinch home runs tied a club mark set in 1958 and 1985. The ballclub hit 17 homers at Philadelphia's Veterans Stadium, the most by a Cubs team in a visiting park since the 1959 Cubs hit 20 at Sportsman's Park in St. Louis.

No one hit more homers in 1987 than newcomer Andre Dawson. In dramatic fashion, he tied for the major league home run title with 49 and led the majors in RBI with 137. Dawson became the first player from a sixth-place team to win Most Valuable Player honors and the first National Leaguer since 1947 to win the award in his first season with a team. In addition, he earned a host of post-season accolades that included a seventh Gold Glove.

For the first time since 1930 (Hack Wilson, 56 HR and 190 RBI; Pat Malone 20-9), the Cubs had the league leader in homers, RBI and wins in the same season. Dawson's counterpart on the mound was Sutcliffe, who came back in 1987 to win more games (18) than in the two previous seasons combined (13). Sutcliffe, the first Cubs pitcher to lead the league in wins since Fergie Jenkins was 24-13 in 1971, finished 2nd by two points to Philadelphia's Steve Bedrosian in the closest Cy Young Award vote in history.

Sutcliffe fanned 174 batters, the highest strikeout total by a Cub since Bill Bonham registered 191 in 1974. Sutcliffe and left-hander Jamie Moyer (147) both ranked in the league's Top 10 in strikeouts, becoming the first Cubs pitching duo to accomplish that since Bonham (165) and Rick Reuschel (155) in 1975.

Rookie Les Lancaster won 8 of 11 decisions, as both a starter and a reliever. The 8 victories were the most by a first-year Cubs pitcher since Mike Krukow and Willie Hernandez won 8 games apiece in 1977.

Second baseman Sandberg won his fifth straight Gold Glove, committing only 10 errors in 679 total chances (.985). He had a team-leading 52 multi-hit games despite missing four weeks with a severely sprained right ankle.

Dawson combined with Leon Durham (27) and Keith Moreland (27) for 103 home runs, the 2nd-highest trio total in Cubs history. Durham ranked 8th on the club's career home run list after hitting a career-high 27 homers, the most by a Cubs first baseman since Jim Hickman's 32 in 1970. Moreland also established a career-high in the homer department while hitting more home runs than any Cubs third baseman since Ron Santo's 29 in 1969. Catcher Jody Davis reached a milestone April 21 in St. Louis when he connected for his 100th major league homer.

The Cubs employed a successful platoon system in leftfield and centerfield. In left, Jerry Mumphrey batted a team-leading .333 and hit a career-best 13 home runs. Right-handed hitting counterpart Brian Dayett hit .277 in 177 at-bats.

In centerfield, Dave Martinez finished his first full major league season with a .292 average, including .306 as the club's leadoff man, and a .372 on-base percentage. Bob Dernier played against left-handed pitching and set career marks in hitting (.317) and home runs (8).

The Cubs' bench performed well again in 1987. Mumphrey finished 2nd in the N.L. in pinch-hitting with a .343 average and collected 12 pinch RBI. Manny Trillo played all four infield positions, hitting .294 with a career-high 8 homers. He batted .318 as a pinch hitter, the 5th highest pinch-hitting average in the league. Rafael Palmeiro saw action at first base and in the outfield, contributing 14 homers in just 221 at-bats. Jim Sundberg caught in 57 games, moving into 4th place on the all-time games caught list (1,798).

Aside from September recalls, the Cubs used nine players who had less than one year of major league service prior to spring training. The organization's six minor league affiliates posted a cumulative record of 374-328 (.533)—the fourth successive season of improvement in the system. Geneva won the New York-Penn League (A) championship, giving the Cubs a post-season winner each of the last three years.

Dallas Green resigned on October 29 following six years as the organization's executive vice president, president and general manager.

CUBS HOMER HIGHLIGHTS

The Cubs hit a league-leading 209 homers in 161 games in 1987, breaking the 162-game record of 207 home runs set by the 1966 Atlanta Braves. In the process, the Cubs established single-season club marks for homers at Wrigley Field (114) and on the road (95).

Since 1900, the Cubs have led the N.L. in home runs eight times, including the past three seasons. In three of the eight years (1916, 1930, 1958), the team had the most homers in the majors. The last club to rank first in the N.L. in homers three straight years was the Los Angeles Dodgers, who led the league five consecutive seasons (1977-1981).

Wrigley Field was the site of two homer milestones in 1987. On April 15, Jody Davis hit the 4,000th homer by a Cubs player at Wrigley Field. On August 21, Houston's Bill Doran hit the 8,000th home run in N.L. history at Wrigley Field. Prior to the 1988 season, there had been 8,084 N.L. homers hit at Wrigley Field—4,105 by the Cubs and 3,979 by the opposition.

DON ZIMMER (4)
Manager

HEIGHT: 5-7 WEIGHT: 175
AGE: Turned 57 on January 17.
BORN: 1/17/31 in Cincinnati, OH

On November 20, 1987, the Cubs named Don Zimmer the 40th manager in club history. He is the 15th former Cubs player to manage the team.

Zimmer has been involved in professional baseball for 39 years, including 25 in the majors, and has nine years of major league managing experience. He started his managerial career with San Diego, replacing Preston Gomez as the Padres' manager in April 1972 after opening the season as the club's third base coach. Zimmer was the Padres' manager for two seasons.

Don spent five seasons managing the Boston Red Sox (1976-1980) and two seasons with the Texas Rangers (1981-1982). He brought an overall record of 620-600 (.508) as a major league manager into the 1988 season with three second-place finishers and three third-place finishers.

Don's Boston teams won 91 or more games three consecutive seasons and were 411-304 (.575) during his tenure.

Besides managing, Don coached for the Montreal Expos (1971), the Padres (1972), the Red Sox (1974-1976), the New York Yankees (1983, 1986), the Cubs (1984-1986) and the N.L. Western Division-champion San Francisco Giants last season. Zimmer was the third base coach for the Cubs under manager Jim Frey from 1984 until June 12, 1986. He coached for the Yankees the remainder of the 1986 season.

Zimmer, who played mostly third base during his 12-year major league career, spent two seasons with the Cubs (1960-1961). Don hit .254 as a Cub with 19 homers and 75 RBI in 260 games. He represented the team in one of the two All-Star games in 1961. He was hitless in his only All-Star Game at-bat. After the season, he was chosen in the expansion draft by the New York Mets.

Zimmer also played for the Dodgers in Brooklyn and Los Angeles, the Cincinnati Reds and the Washington Senators. He spent one season (1966) in Japan, playing for the Toei Flyers. He played in the 1955 and 1959 World Series for the Dodgers. The 1955 club was the only World Champion in Brooklyn baseball history. A .235 career hitter in the majors, Don made his pro debut in the Dodgers' system in 1949.

Two serious head injuries threatened his career as a player. The first came in 1953 while he was playing for St. Paul of the American Association (AAA), when he was struck in the head by a pitch thrown by Columbus' Jim Kirk. In 1956, while playing for Brooklyn, Don was struck in the face by a pitch from Cincinnati's Hal Jeffcoat. Zimmer was batting .300 at the time of both injuries.

Zimmer and Frey, the Cubs' executive vice president, baseball operations, grew up together in Cincinnati. They attended Western Hills High School, where they played on the same baseball and basketball teams.

Donald William Zimmer and his wife, the former Jean Bauerie, were married at home plate in Elmira, NY, on August 16, 1951. They reside in Treasure Island, FL, during the off-season. They have two children, Tom and Donna.

When Chuck Rainey's no-hitter on August 23, 1983, was ended by Cincinnati's Eddie Milner with two outs in the 9th inning, it was the 22nd time in baseball history a no-hitter had been broken up with two outs. Additionally, three perfect games have been ended with two outs in the 9th. Rainey was the first Cub to lose a two-out, 9th-inning no-hitter. The Cubs also broke one up themselves—Joe Wallis ruined Tom Seaver's bid for a no-hitter in 1975.

No player in baseball history has ever had a season when he had 200 or more hits plus 20 or more doubles, triples, homers and stolen bases. Ryne Sandberg came the closest to achieving that plateau, falling short by one homer and one triple. Here are a few of the players who have come the closest in baseball history:

SCORING RULE—PINCH HITTERS

A player shall be considered a pinch hitter only if he enters the game as a substitute batter and then only on his first time at bat, which must be before he becomes a fielder. If the team bats around and a pinch hitter comes up a second time in the inning in which he first appeared, he will not be considered a pinch hitter during that second time up.

A substitute hitter for a designated hitter is both a pinch hitter and a designated hitter on his first time at bat. On subsequent trips to the plate he is a designated hitter only.

Rule 10.20 tells the official scorer to credit a pitcher with a save when he meets all three of the following conditions: (1) He is the finishing pitcher in a game won by his club; and (2) He is not the winning pitcher; and (3) He qualifies under the following conditions: (a) He enters the game with a lead of no more than three runs and pitches for at least one inning: or (b) He enters the game with the potential tying run either on base, at bat or on deck (that is, the potential tying run is either already on base or is one of the first two batsmen he faces); or (c) He pitches effectively for at least three innings.

CUBS NO-HIT PITCHERS SINCE 1900

1915 Jim Lavender, August 31, vs. Giants at New York, first game of double-header, won 2-0.
1917 Jim Vaughn, May 2, vs. Redlegs at Weeghman Park (pitched 9.1 hitless innings, lost 1-0 on 2-hitter in 10 innings; Cincinnati's Fred Toney pitched 10-inning no-hitter).

NO-HITTER DAY

On August 19, 1965, Jim Maloney of the Cincinnati Reds threw a 10-inning no-hitter against the Cubs at Wrigley Field. The Reds won the game 1-0 on a home run by Leo Cardenas. Four years later, on August 19, 1969, Cub lefty Ken Holtzman threw the first of his two no-hitters when he beat the Atlanta Braves 3-0 at Wrigley Field. All three runs scored on Ron Santo's first-inning homer.

GENERAL RULES AND INFORMATION

Player Limits: Clubs must cut their active rosters to a maximum of 25 players or a minimum of 24 by Opening Day. From September 1 to Opening Day, teams may carry up to 40 players.

Waivers: Players are available on waivers for purchase by other clubs in reverse order of the league standings at the time waivers expire if more than 30 days after Opening Day. Otherwise, clubs may claim players on waivers in reverse order of the league standings at the close of the preceding season. There are three waiver periods: November 11 to 30th day of season; 31st day of season to July 31; and August 1 to November 10.

Trading Deadline: The trading deadline is July 31. Waivers are necessary for any player assignment between Major League clubs made from August 1 until 5 p.m. (EDT) the day after the close of the regular season. Waivers are not needed for Major League assignments during the rest of the year.

Regulation Game: A regulation game consists of nine innings unless extended because of a tie score or shortened because (1) the home team needs none or part of its half of the ninth or (2) because the umpire-in-chief calls the game after at least five completed innings. A regulation game may be less than five innings if the home team leads after the top of the fifth or takes the lead or ties the score while batting in the fifth.

Tie Game: A regulation game that is called by the umpire-in-chief when both teams have the same number of runs is a tie game. Player performances are official and are entered in the records, but the game does not count in the league standings and may be rescheduled at a later date.

Suspended Game: A game becomes a suspended game if it has progressed far enough (4 1/2 or 5 innings) to be an official game and is stopped because of a) a curfew imposed by law, or b) a pre-arranged time limit, or c) darkness when a local law prohibits turning on the lights or when lights are not available.

Rookie Qualifications: The Baseball Writers' Association of America considers a player a rookie unless during the previous season or seasons he has a) exceeded 130 at-bats or 50.0 innings pitched in the Major Leagues, or b) accumulated more than 45 days on the active roster of a Major League club during the 25-man limit that is in effect from Opening Day through August 31.

Major League Year: A full year in the Major Leagues is defined as 172 days.

Qualifying Numbers: To qualify for the batting championship, a player must have a minimum of 502 plate appearances. To qualify for the ERA title, a pitcher must have at least 162.0 innings pitched.

Consecutive-Game Hitting Streak: A consecutive-game hitting streak shall not be terminated if all a player's plate appearances result in a base on balls, hit batsman, defensive interference or sacrifice bunt. The streak shall end if the player has a sacrifice fly and no hit.

Consecutive-Game Playing Streak: A consecutive-game playing streak shall be extended if a player plays one half-inning on defense, or if he completes a time at bat by reaching base or being put out. A pinch-running appearance only does not extend a streak. If a player is ejected from a game by an umpire before he can comply with the requirements of this rule, his streak shall continue.

DID YOU KNOW?

Former Cub great Cap Anson was the oldest player to hit a grand slam in the major leagues. Anson was 42 years and three months old when he hit a bases-loaded homer on August 1, 1884. He also closed out his career by hitting two home runs in the first game of a double-header against St. Louis on October 3, 1897, when he was 45 years and five months old. Only Philadelphia A's pitcher Jack Quinn hit a major league homer at an older age. Quinn was one week shy of his 46th birthday when he connected on June 27, 1930.

IN MEMORIUM

The Chicago Cubs' organization and its minor league department lost two well-respected people in 1987.

Mary Elizabeth "Liz" Riordan, an administrative assistant in the Cubs' scouting department, died August 8, 1987. She started her career in sports in 1959 as secretary to the general manager and executive vice president of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League. She was with the Eagles until 1968, when she moved to the Philadelphia Phillies' minor league and scouting office. She came to the Cubs in a similar capacity in 1982.

Arnulfo Acevedo "Nino" Espinosa, who had been scouting and operating a Cubs training school in the Dominican Republic, died December 24, 1987. Nino pitched in the majors from 1974-1981 and compiled a 44-55 record.

VOICES OF THE CUBS

This season, Cubs baseball will be broadcast once again on WGN television and radio. The announcing crew will consist of Harry Caray, Steve Stone, Dewayne Staats and newcomer Dave Nelson.

Harry Caray, entering his 45th season of broadcasting and seventh with the Cubs, will again be the play-by-play voice of WGN TV. He will do the first three and final three innings. During the middle three innings, he will provide play-by-play on WGN radio.

Harry was the voice of the White Sox for 11 years (1971-1981) before joining the Cubs' broadcast team in 1982. Prior to coming to Chicago, he spent one season (1970) announcing Oakland A's games and 25 years broadcasting St. Louis Cardinals games. He began his career in radio sports in Joliet, IL. Harry was elected to the National Sportscasters and Sportswriters Hall of Fame.

Steve Stone will be entering his sixth season as the color man of WGN TV. The former Cy Young Award winner retired from baseball in June 1982 after suffering an arm injury. Steve's 11-year career included three seasons with the Cubs (1974-1976).

During his Cy Young Award-winning season with Baltimore in 1980, he posted a 25-7 mark. He had a career record of 107-93.

Dewayne Staats will be handling play-by-play for WGN radio during the first three and last three innings again this season. He will switch to TV play-by-play during the middle three innings. In addition to baseball, he has done radio play-by-play for the DePaul Blue Demons men's basketball team during the past three winters.

Dewayne, in his fourth year with WGN, was the play-by-play voice of the Houston Astros from 1977-1984 before coming to Chicago. He also broadcast Big Eight Conference and Southwest Conference basketball.

The newest member of the WGN broadcasting team is Dave Nelson. The former major league player and coach will handle color commentary on radio. Nelson was most recently the director of instruction for Oakland. He was a coach for the Chicago White Sox from 1981-1985.

Dave played in the majors 11 years, retiring in 1978 following two division championship seasons with the Kansas City Royals. Nelson hosted a radio program at a Joliet station while in Chicago and worked for SportsVision.

MESA—SPRING TRAINING HOME

The Cubs returned for their 10th consecutive spring training at Mesa and HoHoKam Park in 1988. In 1987, the Cubs posted a 19-14 Cactus League record, the most spring training wins for the club since 1971, when they finished with a 20-10 mark.

The 19 wins last season were the 2nd highest win total of the 26 major league teams. Only the San Francisco Giants had more victories (20).

The Cubs also established a major league spring training home attendance record. A total of 106,313 fans paid to watch the Cubs at HoHoKam Park. It marked the third straight season the Cubs have surpassed 100,000 in home attendance. The only other team in spring training to surpass 100,000 was the New York Yankees (1986, 1987) in Ft. Lauderdale, FL.

The highest average attendance at HoHoKam was set in 1985—6,434 per game. Last season's highest single-game total at HoHoKam was 7,655, set on four occasions. The single-game home attendance mark at HoHoKam was established March 12, 1985, when 8,118 fans attended a Cubs/Padres exhibition game.

The HoHoKams, a local service organization, operates HoHoKam Park. The organization has made the Cubs' spring home one of the best facilities in major league baseball.

Mesa is the fifth training site used by the Cubs since 1921. The club trained for 26 years from 1921-51 (excluding the World War II years) at Catalina Island, located off the coast of southern California. The Cubs trained at French Lick, IN, during the springs of 1942-1944. In 1952, the Cubs moved to Mesa, AZ, and trained there until they went to Long Beach, CA, in 1966 for one spring. In 1967, the Cubs moved to Scottsdale, AZ, until their return to Mesa and HoHoKam Park in 1979.

Mesa has a population of more than 250,000 and is located southeast of Scottsdale and Phoenix. HoHoKam Park is located at 1235 N. Center St., just north of Brown Rd. HoHoKam Park opened on March 11, 1977, and was originally the spring home of the Oakland A's. It has a seating capacity of 8,611.

The Cubs utilize Fitch Park in Mesa as their minor league spring training headquarters. The major league club practices at this facility until the start of the Cactus League schedule. Fitch Park is located at the corner of 6th and Center streets.
